

Hi Trev,

Thanks for the feedback. Following are the explanations of all the points of your feedback

1.1

This wasn't explained in the start, now this include few database and backend changes. Because we did not know that a task can be repeated on specific intervals, we did the code on that structure. However it will take some time, but it can be done.

1.2

This is just a change in labels, it can be done quickly.

1.3

We have that field in database, that can be done.

1.4

This might be a device specific issue, can you tell me on which device you are using the system?

1.5

I would consider it a bug and will resolve it.

1.6

Its a database change, but can be done.

1.7

Those checkboxes are for selecting starting date, ending date and completion date. When a user selects a checkbox e.g startdate , then if he enters starting and ending date search will be performed on starting and ending date of startdate.

And search is working correctly, the results are generated on values entered in those parameters.

1.8

I consider it as a bug and will look into the matter.

1.9

Again I consider it as a bug and we will resolve it.

2.0

This will change alot of things, we have to change database. There would be alot of changes in the database and front end because we never anticipated this change, however we have a standard architecture which can accomodate these changes.

2.1

I need more explanation on it.

2.2

Small task, can be done in an hr or so.

2.3

I will check it. I think it is a bug.

2.4

I need more information about the tags. Where tags should be attached.

2.5

That would require some working hrs but that can be done.

Explanation

There were 4 bugs and one point on which i need explanation. Other than that, all features are add ons. It would approximatley take one and half week (at least) to do these changes but they can done.

Our software architecture can accomodate those changes. And I would recommend that if you have any other changes, it would be easier for us to do them now.

Pricing

Your last changes required approximately one working week and the cost of that was $635 and out of that you paid $360 as tip. Now these changes would approximately cost you $720. However these pricings are according to my calculations. If you have any counter offer please let me know.